Privacy

The NST collects information, including personal information, for the purposes of resolving sporting disputes.

In general, personal information we collect and hold relating to a particular dispute will be disclosed to all Parties and their representatives.

For more information, see the full privacy policy here: <https://www.nationalsportstribunal.gov.au/using-our-website/privacy-policy>

What do we do with the information you give to us?

We collect personal information to process applications and resolve disputes under the National Sports Tribunal Act 2019 (NST Act). If you do not provide all requested information, we may be unable to progress the application.

We may collect information about you from another Party to the dispute, or as required by or under the NST Act or another Australian law. We may give a copy of this form or any other information you provide as part of the dispute to another Party, person, or body permitted to participate in the dispute.

Proceedings before the NST will generally be held in private. Confidentiality and non-publication orders can also be sought.

Details about your dispute may be published in a list of matters on our website. After an arbitration, the NST will publish the decision or a case summary. Where appropriate, this will not contain information that would identify the Parties, or that could reasonably identify the Parties.

Only some decisions will be published:

- Anti-doping matters: if it finds that an anti-doping rule violation has been committed.
- Non-Anti-doping matters: with the Parties' consent or where the determination has significant precedential value.

We will only send your personal information overseas if a Party (including an international sporting federation), representative or witness is located outside Australia.

Your data may be used to improve NST services. This includes use for continuous improvement purposes and conduct of formal service evaluation. To fulfil this purpose, we may disclose data about you, the services you receive from the NST, and the matter, dispute or case you are involved in to third party organisations which are contracted to support our improvement and evaluation activities. Data disclosed in this way will be used only for the purpose of continuous improvement or evaluation and for no other purpose.

You can opt out of contribution to the evaluation by emailing enquiries@nationalsportstribunal.gov.au. Choosing not to contribute your data will not have any impact on the services you receive from the NST.
